Heads Teachers Weekly News

Last week the children came into school looking a bit different. For one day only the children were allowed to wear their jeans! It was an amazing day and our Jeans for Oxfam Day raised an incredible total of £440. This is a fabulous start to our fundraising this year. Well done to everyone involved and especially to Miss Silk for organising it. She also ran two assemblies explaining to the children where all the money that we raise will go to. If we can get to £1500 we will have raised enough to fit out a whole classroom. We will keep you posted about the amounts that we make.

We have been fortunate this week to have the poet, Neal Zetter, in to visit the school. He has been running workshops with the children and they have also been asking him lots of interesting questions about why he became a poet. He has certainly been inspiring the children in their own writing.

Two year groups went out on trips this week. Both the Year 3 and Year 5 staff commented on how well the children behaved and how sensible they were. We are always very proud of our children and it shows what great representatives of the school they are!
