Headteacher's Weekly News

Questions, questions and more questions! This week is Investigations Week at Barnfield and the children have been carrying out a range of exciting and interesting tasks. The children have already been involved in maths workshops and the leader this activity has been so impressed with the way the children listen, think through problems and work together to solve them. He has told me on numerous occasions this week how fabulous all the children are. There are more activities still to come later on in the week and there are also competitions to enter for both our Infant and Junior children. A big thank you to Miss Anders, Mrs Jones, Miss Cordey and Ms Grasby for organising all the amazing things that are taking place this week. Do look on the website for photos of the children throughout this week.
